

A Catalogue: With Descriptive Notices, of the Portraits, Busts, Etc (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from A Catalogue: With Descriptive Notices, of the Portraits, Busts, Etc. A Catalogue of Paintings, belonging to Yale College; deposited in the South Room of the Trumbull Gallery, edited by Mr. Edward C. Herrick, was printed in 1852 (octavo, 31 pages); but the edition was soon exhausted, and the pamphlet has never been reprinted. In the present catalogue it has been thought best to include, with the separate portraits, busts, statues, and bas-reliefs, owned by the University, the miniatures by Colonel John Trumbull, contained in the collection of his paintings deposited in the Art School; there will also be found in an Appendix lists of the authentic portraits in the well-known series of Revolutionary paintings by Colonel Trumbull comprised in the same collection. Free use has been made of Mr. Herricks Catalogue in the following descriptions; and valuable aid in the additional notices has been received from many friends. The size of the canvas in the several paintings is given, in inches; the Trumbull miniatures are all of uniform size, oval, 3? x 3? inches. Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
