

Descendants of Matthew Coe (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Descendants of Matthew Coe I have, for several years, as I could spare the time in the intervals of business, and for my own information, been collecting data relating to that branch of the Coe family to which I belong, descending from Matthew Coe, the emigrant of 1645. The record appears to be a quite perfect one for the first two or three generations, and with trifling exceptions almost perfect for the last three or four generations. Occasionally dates may be slightly inaccurate, caused by different dates being given by members of the same family, but the record, as a whole, is reasonably correct. As the members of the family are now so widely scattered and so distant, most of them, from the early home of their fathers in Little Compton, it has seemed to me that I would be doing them a service in printing for their use and for private distribution the results of my inquiry and correspondence. It will serve as a foundation for future building, and possibly preserve what has been obtained from those who, in the course of nature, must soon pass away. The plan of the record, it will be seen, is to bring the names down to the fourth generation in regular order. Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
