

Research in the History of Economic Thought and Methodology, Volume 27

Research in the History of Economic Thought and Methodology is an annual research series which presents in three volumes materials in two fields, both broadly considered: the history of economic thought; and the methodology of economics. Volume 27 A features articles on classical and modern economic thought (Smiths lecturing, editing the Harrod papers, Viners reminiscences of the New Deal, Lavoies lectures, and recent relational conceptions of the individual), and includes review essays on books about historical figures in economics (Schumpeter, Keynes, Mincer) and the historical treatment of particular movements or issues in the discipline (Chicago School, comparative economic history, economic growth, postmodernism, and ethics). Volume 27 B is devoted to a collection of primary materials about Henry Georges relation to the Irish land question. Volume 27 C contains course notes from Oxford and the University of Chicago taken by F. Taylor Ostrander and Glenn Johnson, an autobiographical account of Ostranders career, and some other notes and correspondence related to his work and studies.

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
