

La Petite Ville: Edited with Introduction, Notes and Vocabulary (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from La Petite Ville: Edited With Introduction, Notes and Vocabulary This is the first of Picard's comedies to be edited for classroom use. It is to be hoped that it will prove profitable to those who choose to read it. La Petite Ville is simple and entertaining, and may be read easily at the beginning of the second year of French. The text used is that of the original edition of 1801. Several printer's mistakes have been corrected, and necessary changes made in spelling, capitalization, and punctuation. In a few places stage directions have been added. These changes have been made after careful comparison with the edition of 1821, which was published under the supervision of the author, and the later editions of Moland and Fournier. The notes have been made copious in an effort to show how faithfully the play reflects the society of France just after the Revolution. Acknowledgment is due to Professor O. G. Guerlac, of Cornell University, for valuable suggestions in the preparation of this volume, and likewise to Dr. M. B. Garrett, of the University of Michigan, for assistance in finding certain references in the Cornell University library. Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to English so forgive me the Dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
