This publication presents in a clear and attractive visual form a handy reference map of the new Europe. Amidst the fast changing political development and boundary changes of late this map provides a wealth of the most recently available information about our diverse continent. The main map, at a generous scale of 1:500,000, is politically coloured to show all national, first and, where appropriate, second order administrative units all over Europe from the Atlantic coast to beyond the Soviet border. The countries and regions of the United Kingdom; the Provinces and Departments of France the Lander and Regierungsbezirke of the re-united Germany; the Cantons of Switzerland etc, are all colourfully depicted, coded and named together with their administrative capitals, both national provincial. In addition other major centres of population are also identified and named on this map. In support of the main political map, four side panels include thematic maps and graphs summarizing today's Europe in terms of four important topical issues: economy; people; work; environment.

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
