Excerpt from Address Delivered on Occasion of Centennial Celebration of the Town of Merrimack, N. H. April 2, 1846: Rev. Stephen T. Allen

In one of the favorite volumes of Sir Walter Scott he has introduced a personage that invariably awakens the interest and wins the esteem of all classes of readers. He is represented as going about from place to place in Scotland, visiting the graveyards, and with pious care repairing and replacing the monuments of the departed, - rubbing off the moss that centuries have gathered upon the headstones of the covenanters and other countless dead, and with his mallet and chisel cutting anew the inscriptions that Times effacing fingers have almost obliterated, - thus snatching from oblivion and handing down to generations to come the memory of those who are worthy to live in everlasting fame. That personage is Old Mortality. What he is represented as doing for the by gone generations in the land of Bruce, we, fellow citizens, have this day assembled to perform for those who have gone before us in the occupancy of the soil whereon we now dwell. After the lapse of a century since the incorporation of our town, we come together to unfold the venerable record of our fathers history, to review the scenes through which they passed, to look upon the spots where first they felled the ancient forest trees, and erected their humble log dwellings, and to witness in the change which a century has effected, the products of their toil, the monuments of their prudent foresight, and the evidences of their self-forgetting care for the welfare of their descendants. Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
