Excerpt from Unified Stenography: The Simplest and Most Uniform of Any of the Pitmanic Systems The general directions which may be given the student in advance are few, as the principles introduced from time to time in the following pages will be specifically treated, when reference is made to them. Ruled paper should always be used. Faint red lines are preferable and they should be ruled about one-half inch apart. Every character must be carefully and correctly formed, and should never be written faster than it can be written well. Ability to write rapidly and legibly will depend upon the precision with which in the beginning each character is written. Accuracy in writing depends upon the direction in which each character is written, its length, and whether it is light or heavy. The perpendicular, slanting, and horizontal strokes should be made in the proper direction, and the curved strokes, when made heavy, should be thickened in the centre only, and should taper toward the extremities; while straight strokes are made heavy throughout, and should be made only sufficiently heavy to distinguish them from light strokes. Either a pen or a pencil may be used, which should be held between the first and second fingers, in an almost upright position. The notebook must be kept in place with the left hand, and, when one is writing, the weight of the body should not rest upon the right arm. Everything should be written and read over and over again. Each character, word, or principle must be learned perfectly before the next one is taken up, and nothing outside of the exercises given in connection with each lesson should be attempted. Word-signs must be reviewed daily. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! Categories Comics Games Playstation 4 Wii U Lifestyle Posted by Joan le Grande in Games, Playstation 4 Leave a comment Tagsexperience, first look, Games, Playstation 4, Playstation VR review, ps4 VR review, virtual reality YES YES YES. I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
