

The Joy of Travel

This collection of forty-one stories, poems, and recollections represents travel moments that the author and associates chose not to forget. The incidents are special. They evoke feelings of coincidence, humor, joy, wonder at the unfamiliar, distress and sometimes pain. Running through the collected works, as a common thread, is the evidence often of a greater, anonymous Being-one who holds the Strings of Time. Can events that amuse, lend such emotion, involve such twists of fate, and tickle the internal funny bone to this degree, be just routine life experiences? Regardless of the philosophical background of the stories, they are too pleasurable, in most cases, and at least memorable, not to share. Who can question the mystic quality of Suzie Come Home? What quirk of human nature inspired the final words in, Enroute to Iona and the Devils Causeway? Is the truth indeed not stranger than fiction when one reads On Your Thirty-First Anniversary? When can we ever hope to replay the great flukes of Nature experienced in Dining Deermouse, Kangaroo Deer, gift, and Canola Carriers? A source of joyous amazement, appreciation and inspiration for the author, perhaps these stories can lift you too to a plain of awe, entertainment and delight.

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
