

East Greenwich Historic Cemetery Inscriptions

East Greenwich, RI, was chartered by the Colony of Rhode Island in 1677, and the earliest surviving gravestone marks the 1718 death of 27 year old Ann (Greene) Tillinghast, wife of John. There are about 80 historic cemeteries, containing 4600 gravestones and over 7,100 inscriptions. The inscriptions are listed individually, each with a code which identifies the cemetery in which they are located. There is a map of the town showing the location of each cemetery, followed by an individual listing of each cemetery, with directions and a map of the cemetery itself, showing where each stone is located. Gravestones recorded in 1892 by James N. Arnold, but which are missing today, are also listed. Finally, there is a full alphabetical index of all the inscriptions, including women under their maiden name if known. This volume is a model for how to best present this information. Highly recommended.

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
