

The clash of cultures: A glossary of cultural shocks experienced by an Eastern migrant in West

When the plane landed in the airport, I still could not believe that I was in a Western country. Putting my feet on a foreign country's soil, and specially a Western one; seeing people from so many different places, races and languages, and so many other new experiences which were happening to me just within 24 hours, and this was too much for me. I was dizzy and confused and at the same time flying over the moon. By then, I had always seen the same people with the same race and color and the same language and culture for the whole my life, and now everything was so different. For a moment, I thought I was in another planet! But it was not, it was the West!

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
