Not illustrated. 1918 Excerpt: ...reefs mature specimens of none but the most resistant species are found, while small specimens of the less resistant forms are sometimes abundant, but in other seasons are almost entirely absent. These facts may perhaps be accounted for by the destruction of the less resistant species because of the high temperature of the water, although other factors can not be excluded when these reefs are visited at intervals of a year and at practically the same season each time. The oxygen consumption of colonies of the same species was found to be directly proportional to the mass of living tissues in a colony and to vary only slightly with the physiological state of the specimen. A colony in which each polyp was in full expansion did not respire any more rapidly than did the same colony when its polyps were kept withdrawn within the ccenenchyma because of the rotation of the jar within which the experiment was being carried out. The oxygen consumption per gram of living tissue per hour varies for different species from 0.0139912 c.c. (Briareum asbestum) to 0.07459 c.c. (Gorgonia flabellum). There was found no apparent correlation between the activity of metabolism and resistance to heat. The least-resistant forms have an intermediate respiration-rate; the most-resistant species has a very low respirationrate; while the species of the genus Gorgonia, which constitute a group of highly resistant forms, have the most rapid metabolism. Although there was no constant difference in the respiration of the same specimen when its polyps were contracted or expanded, in spite of the fact that in the last-named condition the surface area was increased to 1.5 times that of the former, a high respiration-rate was observed in all those species in which the area was greatest in pro...

Welcome to the blog of Joan le Grande. I'm changing the blog to english so forgive me the dutch articles before. I already translated a few, keeping it up! Anyway, stay tuned for lifestyle articles and reviews about games or other nerdy stuff. Enjoy! Categories Comics Games Playstation 4 Wii U Lifestyle Posted by Joan le Grande in Games, Playstation 4 Leave a comment Tagsexperience, first look, Games, Playstation 4, Playstation VR review, ps4 VR review, virtual reality YES YES YES. I'm super hyped about the VR, but you obviously knew that already because of my last blogpost. There were a few hiccups because I ordered it online and I was working during the time it came. I stressed, freaked, jumped and finally gave up on the thought I got to play on the day it came out. But luck was on my side and when I got home, 20 minutes later the VR glasses arrived! In this post I will take you with me on my first experience with virtual reality. Was it as awesome as I hoped? Or is nauseating and not really my cup of tea? Read and find out!
